April 25th, 2006 - Vancouver, B.C: -- QUIZAM Media Corporation scored top marks with UK schools recently when it introduced its revolutionary study software QUIZAM to headmasters and headmistresses of some of the British Isles' oldest and most highly-regarded primary educational institutions.

QUIZAM Media Corporation is leading the digital revolution in Computer-Based Assessment software here in North America, and, in response to unsolicited inquiries and requests from the United Kingdom and Asia, has expanded its administrative presence to London's Mayfair District. The new office, located at 77 South Audley Street London W1K 1JG opened today and invites inquiries to +44/0 20 7405 8500 or internationalsales@quizam.com.

Mr. Stephen Alexander has been appointed Director of International Operations. Mr. Alexander is a lawyer who is involved in the management of international businesses in the technology, property and leisure sectors. His role will be to build an international licensee network.

"This is a very important step in the evolution of the company, in terms of both market exposure and shareholder confidence," says QUIZAM Media Corporation CEO, Russ Rossi.

Tradition-steeped Mayfair District, the most international and cosmopolitan - part home to Saville Row and Bond Street, is the ideal environment in which to grow QUIZAM's intellectual property, and increase its UK and International licensing and curricula content. Currently, the market for QUIZAM study software is 100 million school-age children, 18 million (18%) of which live in the UK.

QUIZAM study software utilizes synchronizes time-tested quizzing methods with state-of-the-art computer and internet technology, and exciting new learning data, to empower students, educators and parents to learn in a highly-productive, non-threatening, real-time environment that is fun and inviting.

QUIZAM media corporation went public in 2003 and trades on the TSX Venture Exchange under the symbol QQ.
