August 4, 2006 – Vancouver, BC – Quizam Media Corporation (“Quizam” or “the Company”) is pleased to announce that Benson Polytechnical High School, one of the nation’s finest professional and technical schools will be using Quizam in its mathematics and science curriculum.

The State Department of Education has chosen Benson Polytechnic High School as one of six high schools to be a New Century School. This honour puts Bensons' Professional/Technical Education program as one of the nation’s finest professional/technical schools. Benson's school-to-work focus is in step with Oregon's educational reform legislation and is actively involved in designing the Certificate of Advanced Mastery for the State of Oregon. Benson is a proud member of two professional/technical organizations: Skills USA (formerly Vica) and HOSA.

Located near the heart of downtown Portland, Oregon, Benson Polytechnic High School draws a broad mix of students from all over the city. Benson offers a multi-year sequence of courses that integrate core academic knowledge with technical skills that can lead a student to higher levels of skill attainment over time. Professional/Technical Education programs at Benson includes: Communication, Construction, Drafting, Electric/Electronics, Health Occupations, Manufacturing, Engineering, and Automotive/Aviation.

Russ Rossi, President, states, “Educational research consistently shows that learning is stimulated when students create for themselves examples of questions from class instruction, and then stimulate factual recall through a multiple-choice computer-based assessment format. Quizam facilitates a learning strategy that first develops a 'practiced ability', expertness, a 'technique' to remember information that will be used for higher learning - it’s perfect for polytechnical schools like Benson”.
