November 1st, 2006 – Vancouver, BC – Quizam Media Corporation (“Quizam” or “the Company”) is pleased to announce Crofton House School will use Quizam for evaluation of students’ progress in core subjects.

Fraser Institute Report Card on Secondary Schools ranked Crofton House School as the first ranking school 2003/2004. Crofton House School is an independent school for girls with an enrolment of 667 students.

Since opening its doors in 1898, Crofton House School has built a solid reputation as a progressive and inspiring learning environment for young women and has become the leading independent girls' day school in British Columbia.

The technology program at Crofton House School provides students with the skills needed to function effectively in a world that continues to change exponentially. Lifelong learning skills such as information literacy, research, communication, problem solving, decision making, and critical thinking are combined with technology and integrated into all aspects of the curriculum. Crofton House School provides state-of-the-art computer facilities and equipment to support the development of these critical skills.

Crofton House School is located in a well-established residential area, near the University of British Columbia.

Russ Rossi, president of Quizam states, “I’m pleased that Crofton will be using Quizam as a self-assessment study tool. I hope that each student, with their unique learning style, will use Quizam in a creative way to build knowledge and make meaningful connections”.
