July 17, 2007 – Vancouver, BC – Quizam Media Corporation

Quizam Media Corporation is pleased to announce that Kenwood School District will pilot Quizam. In addition, Quizam will develop a unique program for Kenwood's K-6 students that are aligned with State U.S. Educational Standards.

Susan Raymond, teacher and resource specialist at Kenwood Elementary school has agreed to collaborate with Quizam's educational curricula specialist, Samantha Duncan in providing content and guidelines to meet State U.S. Educational Standards. The program is targeted for students that require additional support to achieve higher scores on standardized exams.

Kenwood is a one-school district, situated in Sonoma County, current enrolment is 148 students from grades K-6. The school offers a rigorous and comprehensive educational program that's developmentally appropriate and specifically designed for children to be actively engaged in their learning. Kenwood School's tradition of academic excellence and personal connection with each child attracts families from throughout Sonoma County.

Russ Rossi, president states, "This program will first be introduced to Kenwood students in August when they return from holidays. Plans are to offer this unique program to other California School Districts and our U.S pilot schools".
